MEDIA RELEASE | 1 April 2008

Mental health to feature at landcare conference

Mental health expert, Fay Jackson will feature as a keynote speaker at the 2008 Queensland Landcare Conference to be held 21 – 24 September in Monto.

Fay is a multi award winning national motivational speaker, educator, advocate and voice for mental health. Fay will address delegates as a keynote speaker on rural mental health.

Michelle Gleeson, spokesperson for conference hosts, North Burnett Landcare Group said “the theme of this year’s conference is sustainability by design, and sustaining rural communities is as much about keeping people’s minds healthy as it is about looking after the land.

“Fay will challenge delegates to look at whole of community well-being as well as traditional environmental issues as we grapple with a rapidly changing society.”

More than 300 delegates are expected to attend the conference, which comes to Monto for the first time in its 19 year history. As well as her keynote commitments, Fay will also run an interactive workshop for conference delegates and a public forum on mental health.
